

An American-controlled company promised quality full-time jobs at their casinos. Instead, Niagara got low-wage part-time jobs and a company refusing to pay the same as other gaming facilities in Ontario.

Sound fair?

An American-controlled company promised quality full-time jobs at their casinos. Instead, Niagara got low-wage part-time jobs and a company refusing to pay the same as other gaming facilities in Ontario.

Sound fair?

Are you concerned?
Want to help?
Here's how!

Call the CEO of Falls Management Company, Mr. Clare Copeland at 416-322-5005.

Call Mr. Timothy Reid at the Ontario Lottery & Gaming Corporation at 416-224-1772

Tell them you want trained, full-time and experienced security staff looking out for your safety.

A message from the Security Officers of Niagara's casinos, members of OPSEU Local 278.

Are you concerned?
Want to help?
Here's how!

Call the CEO of Falls Management Company, Mr. Clare Copeland at 416-322-5005.

Call Mr. Timothy Reid at the Ontario Lottery & Gaming Corporation at 416-224-1772

Tell them you want trained, full-time and experienced security staff looking out for your safety.

A message from the Security Officers of Niagara's casinos, members of OPSEU Local 278.

A strike is set at Niagara's casinos for 12:01 a.m., June 2, 2006...

Is your safety at risk?

A message from Casino Security Officers

A strike is set at Niagara's casinos for 12:01 a.m., June 2, 2006...

Is your safety at risk?

A message from Casino Security Officers

Not the way to gamble

When you walk through the doors of Niagara's casinos, you are there to have a good time. You want to enjoy yourself, not worry about your safety.

Right now, a strike is looming between the unionized security staff at Niagara's casinos and the employer. Part of the negotiations include more security staff, because we know we are spread too thin. Job security and equity are among the key issues.

But that's not all. The employer refuses to fill full-time security positions, instead relying on part-time jobs to cover the gaps.

Not the way to gamble

When you walk through the doors of Niagara's casinos, you are there to have a good time. You want to enjoy yourself, not worry about your safety.

Right now, a strike is looming between the unionized security staff at Niagara's casinos and the employer. Part of the negotiations include more security staff, because we know we are spread too thin. Job security and equity are among the key issues.

But that's not all. The employer refuses to fill full-time security positions, instead relying on part-time jobs to cover the gaps.

Today, 46 per cent of the security staff are part-time. This coming from a corporation that promised the community good full time jobs.

Soon, you may be at risk

Niagara's casinos make profits in the millions, both for investors and the Province of Ontario. Falls Management Company, that runs the casinos, has an obligation to provide for the safety and well-being of its guests, and must put that obligation ahead of its desire to make profits.

But Falls Management Company, a company controlled by big American

Today, 46 per cent of the security staff are part-time. This coming from a corporation that promised the community good full time jobs.

Soon, you may be at risk

Niagara's casinos make profits in the millions, both for investors and the Province of Ontario. Falls Management Company, that runs the casinos, has an obligation to provide for the safety and well-being of its guests, and must put that obligation ahead of its desire to make profits.

But Falls Management Company, a company controlled by big American interests, doesn't want to play fair. They prefer to exploit part-time workers. They want to force a strike, and use untrained scabs, supervisors and former employees, some of whom were initially fired by the casino.

If there is a strike, stay away!

Security officers are responsible for responding to medical emergencies, fires, bomb threats and terrorist threats. In the event of a strike, untrained staff will take our place. Your safety will likely be compromised.

Don't take that chance. Stay away from the casinos until a fair settlement is reached.

interests, doesn't want to play fair. They prefer to exploit part-time workers. They want to force a strike, and use untrained scabs, supervisors and former employees, some of whom were initially fired by the casino.

If there is a strike, stay away!

Security officers are responsible for responding to medical emergencies, fires, bomb threats and terrorist threats. In the event of a strike, untrained staff will take our place. Your safety will likely be compromised.

Don't take that chance. Stay away from the casinos until a fair settlement is reached.