

We're calling for change.

We're calling on Dalton McGuinty to:

- Cancel the corporate tax cuts that take effect on July 1;
- Cancel the “pay-for-performance” bonuses of top public sector managers;
- Create a low-income cut-off that exempts the lowest-paid workers from the wage freeze;
- Create a new high-income tax bracket so the lucky few at the top can do their share for Ontario; and
- Invest in the public services the people of Ontario need.

In his budget speech, Finance Minister Dwight Duncan said that

“we’re all in this together.”

If the Liberals truly believe this, it’s time they started acting like it.

WORKING PEOPLE

ARE NOT THE PROBLEM...

STOP THE CORPORATE GIVEAWAYS!

Over the next few years, Dalton McGuinty will give away billions of dollars in tax breaks to big corporations. These tax breaks won't create jobs, build our public services, or pay down Ontario's deficit.

Children's Aid Societies are going bankrupt. Hospitals are laying off staff. Children with mental health issues grow up before they get treatment. And the McGuinty Liberals wiped out the nutrition allowance that helped 124,000 people on social assistance get enough to eat.

Meanwhile, hundreds of thousands of regular working people are taking a pay cut. Many work part-time for wages that barely top $20,000 to $30,000 a year. Yet top managers keep raking in fat bonuses while profitable corporations like the banks get new tax break every year.
